SaveWealth Tax Center Opens Early for 2000 Income Taxes

CARLSBAD, CA - December 26, 2000 – SaveWealth.com™ has just opened its 2000 tax center to assist taxpayers in getting an early jump on this year's taxes.

Early tax filers who visit the SaveWealth Tax Center (www.savewealth.com/taxforms) can now download popular 2000 IRS individual tax forms, as well as business tax forms for any size company. Every form is accessible for free in Adobe Acrobat format, which can also be downloaded on the site. Along with tax forms, the website also incorporates 2000 tax software reviews on four different programs, including Turbo Tax and Block Financial's Tax Cut Deluxe.

The SaveWealth Tax Center helps visitors get started on year end tax planning by offering all new features and updated tools such as 2000 tax rates, tax law changes, and an interactive guide to help filers determine which 1040 to use. Visitors can also find listings of tax advisors in their area with the Find a Tax Pro tool. In addition, the SaveWealth Tax Center has brought back its 31 Tax Breaks for 2001 by popular demand.

“When our Tax Center opened last year, we were amazed at the response. This year we hope to assist twice as many people with our new and improved 2000 Tax Center,” stated Scott Carr, Director of SaveWealth.com “Anyone wanting to avoid the April tax headache can download the most popular federal forms for free from our Tax Center. The best part is that our site's tips and 2000 features are up and ready to go, even before the IRS.”

The introduction of the 2000 Tax Center marks the third year that SaveWealth.com has eased the annual tax season rush with free tax forms. Visitors should watch for the launch of all 50 state tax forms, which will be available in early to mid January.
